Harding Jas. Sequier.

Codicil of Mr. Peter Daude which he will have executed after his Will if he dies at Paris He has settled in his Will the most essential things 1. He looks upon it as a proper Deed and acknowledgment to Francis or Guineat his servant to whom he gives and bequeaths the sum of two hundred crowns which are to be taken out of the money which Mr. Maistre has of him afterwards Mr. Maistre shall settle in an amiable manner the expenses of his illness and funeral I give to the said Mr.
Maistre all the Books which are in my Press and to Mr. Vincent in particular my Dictionary of Duille the first Edition with all the Papers which are useless to me after my death 2. He wills and Orders that the Books which don't suit Mr. Maistre shall be delivered to Mr. Maurel such as the Spanish Italian and Latin Books Francis shall deliver the plate which is eight spoons including the Soup Spoon and six forks to enjoy the same as is now Mr. Maistre shall pay in a handsome manner the Physician Surgeon and Apothecary depending upon him on that account Mr. de Culture has had his share in my Will I have not forgot him nor his Brothers and sisters giving each of them a Piece of 24 sols. And this is my last Codicil and remainder of my last Will with regard to Bartidoffe I have recommended her to Mr. Desprez.
